SONGS OF SALVATION

VALIANT SOLDIERS

Bright crown, 25; Song-Book, 588.

Ye valiant Soldiers of the Cross,
Ye happy, praying band,
To whom the world is under less,
We'll reach fair Canaan's land.
All earthly pleasures we'll forsake,
While Heaven appears in view;
In God's service we'll abide,
To fight our passage through.

Oh, what a glorious sight there'll be
When we arrive at home!

Our friends and Jesus shall see,
And God shall say, Well done!

I DO BELIEVE

Tunes—Ye Band, and breves, 121.
MUSIC—Ye Band, and breves, 121.
All that is possible to him,
That can in Jesus' name believe;

The Lord, I no more Thy truth blaspheme,
The truth I lovingly receive;

I love Thee, Lord, my King,
All things are possible to me.

The most impossible of all
Is that I ere from sin should cease;

Yet shall it be! I know it shall;
If nothing is too hard for Thee,

All things are possible to me.

To Christ, the power of God in man;
To Thee, who art all in all,

With Thee, who art all in all,
All wisdom from sin all set free.

All things are possible to me.

We had a busy time on July 12th.

About ten thousand people were in town for the Orange parade.

Adjutant Graves, Coburg and Captain and assisted in the open-air.

A large crowd gathered around and one young man, and a boy knelt at the Drumhead. A splendid response was made in the offering.

ACCUSED BY THE UNIFORM

One of The Salvation Army Assurance Head Office Staff had occasion to visit Scotland Yard. While there he encountered a Mr. Green, Guardsman who, with some apprehension, was merely not a total abstainer. As he hurried up to the Salvationist he exclaimed: "Hi, Capisto, I am an bet-

"Well, perhaps not," was the reply;

but I did not say so."

No, said the soldier, I know you did not, but your uniform did!"

"IN THE OPEN-AIR OUR ARMY WE PREPARE!"

The Summer Months provide splendid opportunities for this form of Salvation Warfare. Make the most of them.

The Call of Calvary for Candidates.

Christ, the innocent victim, dying for the sins of a race gone wrong, asks you to give your life in save those for whom He died.

He who through 4,000 years, did not wear in His love, though He knew all the bitter agony of that cross, says: "I did this for them."

"The man who makes His brow,

He who never knew sin, died that you might be saved to save others.

Hanging by those wounds in His hands and feet until death set Him free—He did it for you, for me.

From these crossed timbers, hung the Greater, dying for the sins of His great earthly family—infinitely loved Will you give Him human love?

While those who repented, repented, reviled and crucified Him, and He pleads for your help to save their children.

Amidst the shame of His unjust death, dying like the worst criminal, in the most shameful way known, He reached down to the last and calls you to save all the worst.

How small earthly honors look, and how unworthy is worldly reputation as we look at God's great sacrifice. What can we do but follow Him?

Millions of Earth do not know of His sacrifice, and others who do, pass by unheeding His call. Will you also pass by?

Three worlds—Heaven, with its eternal joys; Hell, with its everlasting punishment; and this world, with its only chance of salvation, they look at Calvary, ask what you will do.

If you neglect God's call, He may say before next year, "Cultus dico. Why question the ground?" If He calls now, say:

Do not decide hastily, but if suitable, God through Calvary calls you to earth's greatest opportunity. Calmly, fully decide what is your duty, and DO IT NOW!

AT THE LAST!

O God, who hears the smallest cry That ever came from human soul, Be near my need when I rend My heart to the Master. Rock And when she sees it written there, Dear Lord, stand to, behind her chair.

Or if it Thy sacred will, That I may go and strangle her limb, Just let me say, "I'm living still I And in a brighter, better land." One word from Thee will release, O Lord, if you will let me go.

I know her eyes with tears will blind, I know her heart with anguish come, When in the love my home will find, Oh, let me—let me—let me try To somehow make her understand That it is not so hard to die!

She's thinking of the thieve and pain; She's thinking of the saddest things! She does not know in any case, And yet to the other's feelings, She does not know the quiet peace That fell upon my heart like rain, When something sounded my release, And something caused the sense-of somethin'. She does not know, I gleefully went And on with Death, content, content.

I want to say I played the game, But in the game right to the end— I did not shrink at shot or flame, But when at last the good old friend That some call Death, came beckoning I went with him, quite willingly!

Just let me tell her—let her know— It really was not hard to die— N. L. McCLELLAN.

IS GOD MERCIFUL?

By COLONEL BRENGLE

Read one of a speaker who preached an the mercy of God, "though they have been cut off—until it seemed there was nothing in God but mercy." But I fear he misrepresented God. Such misrepresentation is easy, and to people who do not think deeply, and who do not want to take life seriously, it may be pleasant—but it is unspeakably dangerous. Men Errnitter

Some people misrepresent God by making Him savage and cruel. They paint grim pictures of Hell, in which God is depicted as delighted in the exquisite tortures of the damned. Thus they embitter men against God until they feel there is no hope of His mercy. Jonah seems to have had this harsh conception of God, and he grew angry when he found that God was rich in mercy toward the people of Nineveh. (Jonah iv. 2.)

The same mercy of God revolved in the Scriptures is invariably set over against the wrath of God, as the great mountaintops are set over against the deep seas.

Able to Save

The writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews says of Jesus, "He is able also to save them to the uttermost that come unto God by Him" (Heb. viii. 23); while Paul writes of some upon whom the wrath has come to the uttermost (1 Thess. v. 16).

The Epistles lies between these extremes. There is mercy in God, but it is mingled with severity. There is wrath in God, but it is tempered with mercy.

We find God Himself bitterly rebuking those who, living in sin, though He did not disapprove of their ways. He sets before a man like Abel an awful silence; thus thought that I was altogether such a one as Abel; but I will reprove thee, and set thee in order before thine eyes. Now consider this, ye that forget God, lest I tear you to pieces, and there be none to deliver" (Psalm 1. 21, 22).

Held an even balance

All the great soul-wavers from Bible times till now have recognized this union of two elements and held an even balance between the goodness and the severity of God, because the Bible does so, and the Bible, alone of all books gives an authoritative representation of God.

The book of nature speaks to us of the goodness and the severity of God. Take fire as an example. Fire will not only burn food, but it burns out, but it also burns. Wisdom is the way to both quench our thirst and refresh us, but it will burn us. If we recognize God's way of working in nature, and take heed and obey, we shall find nature's laws kind and helpful; but if we neglect or refuse to obey, we shall find them terrible and destructive.

But if we would know God in all the richness of His character, and in all the fulness of His self-revelation, we must study His Word, comparing Scripture with Scripture, and seek His will earnestly.

Behold the goodness and the severity of God, writes Job; on them which fall asunder, but those who are good, if thou continue in His goodness; otherwise, he says, to show that God's mercy doth not destroy His severity, then also shall he cut off? We must beware! Then he adds a touch of tenderness, showing how, even in His severity, God walls up.

Teach me to say I played the game, But in the game right to the end—I did not shrink at shot or flame, But when at last the good old friend That some call Death, came beckoning I went with him, quite willingly!

Help for Everyone

From the day David slew Goliath, and thereby incurred the jealous hatred of Saul, his life was one of continual stress. In spite of his sincerity and great bravery, he was often more than one occasion overwhelmed with perplexity and fear. To use his own words, he was hunted like a partridge in the mountain.

In the eighteen-thousand feet miraculously he escaped from the fierce bands sent out to slay him by the jealous king. An outlaw and a wanderer until, in His own time, God exalted him to be King over Israel, this man after God's own heart knew no rest and enjoyed but few earthly comforts.

The story of his wanderings is full of interest; at one time we see him hiding in the caves of the comb-valley of Elah, but very soon the combat discovered, and he compelled to flee to the forest of Hermon. Even there he is not safe, and is forced to betake himself to a small town called Ziph, five miles from Hebron, and situated in such a tangle of hills and grottoes that one would have thought him quite secure there.

And so, no doubt, he would have been had the people of Ziph been loyal; but their treachery soon drove the fugitive from their neighborhood, to seek refuge in the lonely solitudes of the desert. Every part of this apparently wilderness would be familiar to the shepherd of Bethlehem, whose flock must have often strayed in his ravines.

We can picture David looking up to the high pointed cliff of Ziph over Engedi, where precipices 2,000 ft. high overhang the Dead Sea, and in his extremity remonstrating himself of the possibility of a relief party coming to his assistance. "I will lift up mine eyes to the hills!" he exclaims.

But the hope was short-lived. David knew he ought not expect succor from the tribesmen of Ziph. He cried out, "He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life; he that believeth not in the Son shall not see life, but the wrath of God abideth on him" (John iii. 22).

David's own heart furnishes the answer: "My help cometh from the Lord!" In all his wanderings God held him mindful of him, even when he had taken credit to himself for some of His wonderful deliveries.

Many of us come short of this, begin by relying entirely on our own efforts to meet the enemy at bay. Then when the battle goes against us, we look to the hills for human assistance, and try first one device and then another in the hope of detaching ourselves from the difficulties under which we are placed.

Brigadier-General Pali of Ireland says: "Among the classes that have most impressed me are the Salvation Army in London. In the brotherhood spirit everywhere in evidence. Seeing we come from so many different lands and are of different cultures and races, it is wonderful that such brotherhood should exist. This is truly the spirit of Jesus Christ. Secondly, it is deeply impressed me to see what The Salvation Army has done for the poor, who have been the lowest, this being one of the many glorious results of The Army Founder's dedication of himself to God. The support shown by the British Royal House has touched me most the least, especially Her Majesty Queen Mary's dedication of the new Nurses' Block at the Mothers' Hospital. All these things point, I think, to a future more wonderful than the wonderful past."

BIBLE MESSAGE

"Watch ye, stand fast in the faith; for God will be found to be righteous; but, if ye offend, ye will be destroyed; but, if ye offend, ye will defend the moral and spiritual order of His universe by uttermost penalties against those who go not proudly, carelessly, or wickedly in their own ways."

"Every word of God is pure; He will reward you who will obey His will; and at last you will hear His voice."

Teach me to say I played the game, But in the game right to the end—I did not shrink at shot or flame, But when at last the good old friend That some call Death, came beckoning I went with him, quite willingly!

The night meeting was a welcome to our new Officers, Captain and Mrs. Luxton, and since their coming into our ranks, we have had some profitable meetings and evenings.

Adjutant and Mrs. Riches from Hamilton and Captain Frost, from Trenton, attended the last night meeting.

After Captain Lamont's "I Want to Do" Adjutant Riches piloted the prayer meeting, and after a hard night's sleep, God gave us strength.

During this meeting Adjutant Riches made a special offering to the Memorial Meeting that he conducted three years ago on June 1st.

On Sunday night, for Brother Saunders who was so suddenly called to his reward.

A band was being formed and in a few weeks expect to have a combination that will be great assistance to the Corps.

HUNTSVILLE.

We recently had a visit from Mr. Brigadier Green. On Sunday morning our Open-Air Meeting was a great blessing to one of our comrades who had been away from the Army.

The Open-Air Meetings in the afternoon at night seven seekers knelt at the mercy-seat.

GOD AND MAN.

The key to holiness, the secret of happiness, the secret of victory, are all to be found in the Union of God and man. Neither, without the other, can effect the high purpose of the one or the true interest of the other. These can only be reached by a partnership by both.

Salvation depends upon co-operation. "I can do all things," says Paul, "through Christ that strengthens me."

And what is true of our whole life is true of the acts and experiences which go to make it up. How large a part temptation plays among these experiences, even this son of God knows.

Unfortunately our funds are not sufficient to meet this need. We could easily rescue hundreds of girls but with present resources that is a responsibility I cannot assume."

And if we are to resist temptation, it must be by that same co-operation.

It is we who are to struggle and fight and conquer, and yet it is God himself who is to fight and struggle and conquer in us.

Saved her Pennies
So that Some Poor Child Might Go
To the Fresh Air Camp.

The following letter was recently received at Headquarters from a St. John's resident:

Dear Sirs—
My daughter Beth, aged four, was very interested in your Fresh Air Camp at Jackson's Point last year, and decided to save her pennies to go again this year.

Her pennies were put on by part of my weekly allowance. This year she has been able to save more, and has decided to go again this year.

Please send me a copy of the Fresh Air Camp brochure, and let me know when you are going to have it again.

As we are going to have it again this year, we will be able to go again.

If you could send me a copy of the Fresh Air Camp brochure, and let me know when you are going to have it again.

Yours truly,
D. V. CURREY.

(We are sure that some little city child will be very thankful to Beth for saving up her pennies to go again this year. It is an example that might well be copied by many a boy or girl who is anxious to do a good deed for nothing else also not favoured as themselves.)

Interesting Development at Burwash

Some time ago whilst visiting Barbados Prison Farm, Mrs. Brigadier Fraser, after conducting the prison meetings, was impressed by the fact that she invited to the prison officials with their wives and children to attend a service of the Salvation Army.

As this was the only meeting of a religious character they were privileged to attend, there being no church near, they were greatly interested.

These meetings are now held regularly every Sunday, some eight men, women and children attending.

On many occasions the prison officials, their wives and children, and the prison authorities, have been present.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The Open Air Meeting.

With the opportunity to get at the people in the open air on the important question of getting saved comes the opportunity to get at the most of it. The Kingdom of God is not in this world, and the weapons with which the Salvation warfare is fought are not of this world. The secret of the great deal of the success of any open air meeting will depend upon human co-operation with the Holy Spirit—upon the power of the Word which the rank and file enter into the spirit of the open air meeting and recognise each for himself and herself, a person individually to do his share big things for God and the Salvation of souls.

Salvation Must Be Bought.

Salvation is the gift of God. It is often hard to get people to understand this. There must be a sense of need, or Salvation will not be sought. When some there will be a clear recognition of the enormity of their sins, but to find Salvation there must be a realisation that without it there is no hope of escape.

Furthermore, there must be a willingness to turn from sin, to forsake all allegiances, to abandon all evil practices, to make a clean break, as far as possible for any done, to enter upon the service of God with full purpose of heart, and a determined will to do it.

Assurance of Salvation—the sense of acceptance with God through the merit of Jesus Christ is the work of the Holy Spirit. This is the thing that we ought to take its place, for it is the Soldier's most prized possession. Clean Teaching.

The great end and aim of the coming of Jesus Christ, wrote the Army Major General, was the salvation and restoration of man to the mind and will of God; hence he confirmed the truth of the great commandments, and now made the truth of the God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy might.

The claim of God claims to be Sovereign of all whom He saves. We know, if we do not keep His word, that we are not His children. No man can be a child of God unless he obeys His will, and claims absolute outward and inward obedience to His precepts every hour of every day. Is it not true that every one who professes to be His subject?

“Hast thou not entered this Christ? Do you know Him as your Deliverer from the power of sin? Do you not love Him? Do you not lay thy weary soul upon His bosom? Do you not trust in His Spirit, that His sacrifice has been accepted by God on your behalf, and does the anointing of the Holy Ghost go to your soul? Are you living in the regeneration of His Spirit, carefully seeking to fulfil all righteously the will of God in faithful obedience?”

If so, happy art you, and your example before men and women and your influence upon the world will be the pride of the professed followers of the Christ of God.

The Great Call Campaign

Zeal for Soul-Winning

A Charge by Commissioner Lawley

COMRADE, it would be a million times better for you to give up, finish now, than to go on trying to do God's work without God! Why not go to Him now? Why not find your way to your closet, shut the door, and stay there until you are baptised with the Holy Ghost and with the fire sent down from Heaven?

This is what our glorified General did. He got tired of running meetings without Divine help, tired of assemblies without the direction of the Holy One, tired of sermons without convictions, tired of congregations without conversions, tired of a furnace without fire, a church without life, songs without fervour, prayers that brought no answer and a formal and dead religion.

Sick at heart he turned away from it all, and one night, after hearing a man of God preach, he went home determined to be a possessor of the same blessing. He entered his little room, fell upon his knees, resolved not to rise until the power that convicts sinners was his. For hours he pleaded and prayed. The night was fast passing, but answer was delayed; but William Booth prayed on, and it was during the early hours of the morning that his prayer was heard at last. The answer came, the fire fell, and omnipotent power possessed him.

The next Sunday, in a small Lincolnshire village, he preached to about sixty people in a barn, and seventeen sinners sought Salvation. He became a soul-winner, and, as you all know, he was a winner of souls to the day of his death. Meetings without conversions were as ashes to him. The last meeting he attended was in the Albert Hall on May 9th, 1912. It was a brilliant scene. He acted as Minister of the Gospel ought to act. He talked with a tongue of fire, and as a dying man to dying men.

No one who saw him can ever forget how he looked. He was nearly blind. His white head spoke volumes. The battlefield had left many a scar. He bore the marks of 10,000 fights. Eighty-three wives had told their tale. Stern conflicts with men and with devils had tested him, nevertheless there he stood, with head erect, his confidence in eternal life was unshaken, and with eight or nine thousand others he joined in singing—

“O that with you solder sacred throng
We at His feet may fall,
Join in the everlasting song,
And crown Him Lord of all.”

The meeting closed, and that throng passed out satisfied that they had had a sight of heaven.

But not so with that grand old Soldier of Christ. He had set his way down the steps of the small raised platform, and I was leading him away. His soft, reverent hand was placed gently in mine, he rested heavily upon my arm, and just as we was passing through the door he called out, “I'd like to take a last farewell; just as at poor old half-blind eye tried to view the gorgeous sight he said, ‘Lawley, I am not satisfied. We ought to have had a Prayer meeting and gone straight for the pentitent form.’” He was a lover of souls to the last.

Have you this zeal? Have you this passion for pulling men and women out of the fire? Are you a soldier of Christ? Are you in the army of the King? Jesus wept; do you? The prophet prayed that rivers of water might run down his face, do you? Jesus was never tired of saying, “I and My Father are one,” is this your glory? Are you trying to do things on your own?

The Army's Latest Call

Fresh Opportunities for Work in African Native Locations.

All sorts of proposals reach The General from lands far and near for extension of The Army's work in countries where the opportunities already established, and for the beginning of work in countries and areas not yet reached. Let it be known to you to reflect to you at any time you feel disposed to hide your Light, or to go for the study of the scriptures in such manner as to take away your thoughts or your leisure time from the multitude in the dark to the light of God means you to bring the Light.

“Will you through this Lord receive from the Lord very much I have to say? I have the consolation of the Spirit that His sacrifice has been accepted by God on your behalf, and does the anointing of the Holy Ghost go to your soul? Are you living in the regeneration of His Spirit, carefully seeking to fulfil all righteously the will of God in faithful obedience?”

“If so, happy art you, and your example before men and women and your influence upon the world will be the pride of the professed followers of the Christ of God.

Edited by Lieut.-Colonel H. L. Taylor

Good News from Newfoundland—Where Capital is Urgently Wanted—Opening Stages of a Great Army Movement—Fine Social Work Wanted—Dry Brigade Distinguishes Itself—Founder's Large-hearted Charity; Need—Not Credit

I trust the success of the Meetings will exceed your most sanguine expectation.

D. Lloyd George.

Tuesday, 24th.—At work by 6 A.M. Not so hot. I made a Review, etc. All seemed stirred by thoughts of God's great hand in the world, which makes an imposing appearance. Nothing quite like it either in aim or conduct I have ever met before. The great secret is to have all—to love the most miserable—to save the most sinful. The great simplicity and purity and love gratified with proportion of young Officers—both men and women. Every body loves them.

Considerable effect produced on Council when I related how, the previous morning, having occasion to come to the Albert Hall, I used a Bible which had belonged to me over thirty years to my dear Father, I recited the following verse in the same pell-mell manner in which the good Lordardon every day that prepared his heart to seek God, the Lord of all his fathers, though he no longer had any. “At the first entrance of the sanctuary.” How kin these words to the charity and big heart of our dear old General!

To him, needs not even the most formal, nor words, was over the passport to sympathy and help.

Wednesday, 25th.—Charming letter from dear old Captain (Commissioner) H. L. Taylor, who, in his retirement and much weakness, full of joy and congratulation concerning Bernard's marriage. Recalls with pleasure his days in the Albert Hall in the O.P.A.C. work of The Founder's Motor Camps.

Thursday, 26th.—Worked on notes on conference with Smith 9:40 to 10:30, then to H.Q. With great regret and after much heart-searching settled on day to go to Lambeth Palace to see the Queen. To be delayed in China until the spring. Do hope it is right decision. So much of great importance pending this autumn and winter, and I have decided on the opportunity and anxiety in Europe. Home 3:30.

Friday, 27th.—Started work at 7:30. F. had a bad night.

Reports showed need of capital in China, and the need of our Soc. Sec. Work just think, to take on illustration only, what could be done with better equipment. However, if once started, destruction if once started—except by 4 o'clock, with P.E.B.—Received at the Congress Hall of Delegates to International Scout Council. Nearly 1,000 Scouts and Guides, plus friends. Twenty-two two nationalities represented. All shrank my hand. Function evidently gave great satisfaction—see photo. In the same Hall made a second Meeting, 2:30 and 6:30 p.m., further Meetings. A day of considerable power, mixed with holy love and joy. At night a beautiful scene. F. spoke to the audience for half an hour, and in spite of her weakness gave a really powerful address. She was absent at night, holding a Meeting elsewhere.

Hat very trying, but not so much so as was feared.

Cat strike drags on. A stain of self-interest or of strangulation is approaching.

Monday, 29th.—Very intimate and happy talk this morning with Jane Lamb and Carpenter. She pleases me every time I see her. She is a good wife to Albert Hall.

Must mention other Countries. Can do little else! I am limited to ten minutes!

Albert Hall, Sun, for Social Demonstration. Found the audience very hand-digging, but I do not seem to have gained much by it. Found the Founder's Motor Camps.

Wednesday, 31st.—Visited with Smith 9:40 to 10:30, then to H.Q. Interrogated by various matters. Very tried and overstrained. We had a good time. Finally, after much discussion, he said, “I am afraid I must do little else! I am limited to ten minutes!

Sunday, 4th.—First Meeting with Council 9:30 a.m. at Clapton. Four hundred Delegates, plus three hundred guests. Fine audience. Good sight—for those who can see! 11:15

I congratulate you on your enterprise in convening a Conference of Scout Workers from so many countries to discuss their movements to ameliorate the lot of suffering humanity.

The Scouts and Guides are a great lot of boys. Let me relate one instance.

On Saturday evening several were sitting witnessing a game which the Chinese play. They were absorbed in it and fully entered into the spirit of it when the hush sound.

Without a moment's hesitation they all sprang to their feet. It was to me an excellent example of good and cheerful training and prompt obedience to the call of their Officers and Patrol Leaders.

I could have said something about the Meetings on Sunday, but the Editor told me someone else would do that. I am sorry to say that I am not so good at writing, and I am afraid that from saying they were excellent Meetings, led by the Chief Secretary, as stated by Lieut.-Colonel Moreton, the Vice-President of the Canadian Territory, and other Headquarters Officers, who are on holiday.

In conclusion, the Camp can do no other than to hope greatly in helping the Scouts and Guards to a better understanding of each other, a bigger and more intelligent understanding of the grounds of war, the providing of a towel and piece of soap to a man, and the giving of an additional ray of sunshine to their otherwise dreary lives.

His genial smile goes a long way to make you feel “one of the crew.”

Captain and Mrs. Booth are doing a great work. Carlotta is a good mother, since Grace before Meot. My heart was stirred and I told the Captain so. Mrs. Booth is a mother to all the children, and she gives them an additional ray of sunshine to their otherwise dreary lives.

To see them with clean faces, well clothed, and with a smile on their faces, brings me along—and when they have their hands along—

—and when they have their hands along—as one of them put it: “This is lovely.”

A peach of a place, and a dandy time.

FRESH AIR CAMP

An Impressionistic Sketch by Lt.-Col. Maxwell

(1) Scouts camped in tents. Orphan children in rooms. (2) Children from Toronto housed in large rooms, each with separate bed to sleep in. (3) Boys in a bungalow for use of furloughing Officers.

(4) Bungalows for use of the Canadian Scout Leader. I am very right here—I was impressed with the intelligent place the Camp is.

Excellent Situation.

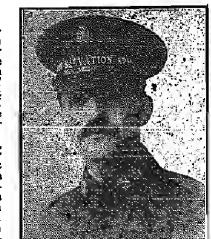

The situation of the Camp is excellent. After a three hours' ride through beautiful country, there very much like our own overseas—we arrived at the Camp stop. We were met by the great staff of the Camp, consisting of two officers and the commanding officer of the Canadian contingent. The camp was well nigh fixed; me I was thankful to the man who made ready the Camp was near to the ear track.

Commissioner Richards, I am told, chose the Camp. He is to be heartily thanked for his choice. The extent of the grounds and their situation could not be bettered. It is bounded on two sides with native forest, and on the other side with the lovely calm waters of Lake Simcoe, in which the lake takes place each day, excepting Sunday.

I am more than ever impressed with the enterprise and excellent organization of the Camp.

The Native Secretary, who reached me in time, is a fine man.

The week-end I spent at this Camp and observed four separate and distinct phases of work going on.

PERSONAL SKETCHES

NO.XVI. MRS. COLONEL GASKIN
"It seems to me that I have been a Salvationist, at any rate, associated with The Salvation Army as long as I can remember," replied Mrs. Colonel Gaskin in response to a question as to why my father used to take my sister and I, when quite little girls, to The Army meetings in London, Ontario, and which town I was born in, so that I will see this interesting; I am a real Canadian Salvationist.

"I was, however, in later years when I was in Windsor, to complete my education that I was brought into really close contact with The Army.

"I was definitely converted to God in the Windsor Citadel while Major White, now of Winnipeg, was Captain of that Corps. It was a wonderful experience for me to live a life that came near to a life. Not long after my conversion, I became, as well, a stenographer in Detroit. I heard the Call to Obedience but did not accept it at that time. I ought to have done. Realizing how much it means to be a saved winner, I did not feel I had the right to accept it at that time, but God 'Who giveth more Grace' showed me the way in which He called me to walk, and I did accept it. I made record of service for Officership.

The Queen All Love.
Speaking of the work of The Army in Canada and in England, Mrs. McMillan told of the opening of a nurses' institution in connection with the Mothers' Hospital in London, which is the largest institution of its kind in the world. This is the result of a series of bunglings, where patients are cared for; of a training home for nurses, and of a child welfare clinic.

On the occasion of the opening of the Council, will accommodate seventy and is the last addition to a number of buildings erected by the Queen.

On the occasion of the opening of the Queen, Mary appeared in a gown of shiny silver-grey, wearing with a soft coquettish smile, her hair in a bun. "Queen Mary is just like a beautiful flower to look at," said Mrs. McMillan. "She radiates light and sweetness. No one could think of being ungrateful before her."

Mrs. McMillan, who was the only Queen's attendant present at the opening, then told of the Queen's generosity to The Salvation Army, and of her gracious interest in every detail of the work of The Congress.

In noticing the Queen's efforts in endeavoring to get a "snapshot" of her, she stepped forward and said:

"Indeed I would, Queen," said the Queen, forgetting the correct method of address.

So the young Salvationists and the first lady of England withdrew to a Staff Training College. While at Teresian House, Mrs. Gaskin, Mrs. Gaskin, Y. P. Local at Lippincott Street, and for several years the much loved Sergeant-Major. The Y. P. Corps presented a splendid display of drill.

She was most thorough throughout the Territory for her excellent work in preparing Drills for girls, having on several occasions given a demonstration at Y. P. Demonstrations at the Massey Hall; these Drills being in great demand were given over and over again at various Congresses.

Mrs. Gaskin is one of those thorough and painstaking Officers whose work speaks for itself. She is a true Christian, and has a strong "instant in season and out of season," always courteous and strictly confidential. She enjoys the utmost confidence of all the Officers, and especially of the Officers under whose direction she has for so long labored. She is a simple, exact and mathematical in all she does, and the whole of her Officer Career until marriage was regarded as "behind the scenes." She has done a great deal of public work, especially in this so since her marriage, taking her place by her husband's side, and from whom she has learned much. Her addresses indicate careful preparation, and prayerful application to her task. She is a woman of strong though somewhat quiet manner, but does not fail to reach the hearts of her hearers. She loves visiting the sick, and has a special love for the bears of any Salvationist being afflicted without making some effort to visit, and thus cheer and comfort.

A - Old-Time Story
With An Up-to-the-Minute Sketch

Many years ago a woman father and a Staff Corps in Canada had to leave a farm property because of a man's pursuit of a woman in their neighborhood, and were reviewed by Princess Louise.

Events now.

Two "Everbide" Homes for old ladies were among the interesting institutions founded by General Booth. These comfortable old houses, surrounded by gardens and furnished with every comfort, are entirely free, attended by an delegate from all over the world. Twenty were presented from Canada, twenty from the United States, Japan, China and the different countries of Europe there were representatives, who brought tidings of the work of The Salvation Army in their various countries.

Among the delegates was a Russian girl, just released from a prison of suffering. Sir George, General Secretary, and Colonel Jivanandam, a high caste Hindu, who was presented to the Queen, were there, and the Queen, to his credit, wonderfully record of service for Officership.

The Queen All Love.
Speaking of the work of The Army in Canada and in England, Mrs. McMillan told of the opening of a nurses' institution in connection with the Mothers' Hospital in London, which is the largest institution of its kind in the world. This is the result of a series of bunglings, where patients are cared for; of a training home for nurses, and of a child welfare clinic.

On the occasion of the opening of the Queen, Mary appeared in a gown of shiny silver-grey, wearing with a soft coquettish smile, her hair in a bun. "Queen Mary is just like a beautiful flower to look at," said Mrs. McMillan. "She radiates light and sweetness. No one could think of being ungrateful before her."

Mrs. McMillan, who was the only Queen's attendant present at the opening, then told of the Queen's generosity to The Salvation Army, and of her gracious interest in every detail of the work of The Congress.

In noticing the Queen's efforts in endeavoring to get a "snapshot" of her, she stepped forward and said:

"Indeed I would, Queen," said the Queen, forgetting the correct method of address.

So the young Salvationists and the first lady of England withdrew to a Staff Training College. While at Teresian House, Mrs. Gaskin, Mrs. Gaskin, Y. P. Local at Lippincott Street, and for several years the much loved Sergeant-Major. The Y. P. Corps presented a splendid display of drill.

She was most thorough throughout the Territory for her excellent work in preparing Drills for girls, having on several occasions given a demonstration at Y. P. Demonstrations at the Massey Hall; these Drills being in great demand were given over and over again at various Congresses.

Mrs. Gaskin is one of those thorough and painstaking Officers whose work speaks for itself. She is a true Christian, and has a strong "instant in season and out of season," always courteous and strictly confidential. She enjoys the utmost confidence of all the Officers, and especially of the Officers under whose direction she has for so long labored. She is a simple, exact and mathematical in all she does, and the whole of her Officer Career until marriage was regarded as "behind the scenes." She has done a great deal of public work, especially in this so since her marriage, taking her place by her husband's side, and from whom she has learned much. Her addresses indicate careful preparation, and prayerful application to her task. She is a woman of strong though somewhat quiet manner, but does not fail to reach the hearts of her hearers. She loves visiting the sick, and has a special love for the bears of any Salvationist being afflicted without making some effort to visit, and thus cheer and comfort.

B - Ignorance and Windom

Then Paul stood up in the midst of all, and said, "Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are very superstitious; for as I passed by and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, 'To the Unknown God.' Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, Him declare I unto you."

To sum up this chapter sketch to what could be more fitting than that of the Apostle: "Diligent in spirit, fervent in power, zealous in the cause of Christ, and zealous for the honor of his Master, the British House of Commons. The ceremony took place in Westminster.

The perfection of the human soul consists of serving Christ daily; the assuming of religion at intervals contradicts its essential idea.

Need for Development in Canada along this line

Just before taking up the office of President of Chile in January, the Hon. Arturo Prat Mercader received a delegation of Protestant missionaries who presented him with a copy of the Bible. The "Bueno Cristiano" of Santiago, he is making as "Conservation."

"I am a Christian. I believe in the teachings of Christ. I drink water from the pure fountain, and not from the muddy swamp; I except the whole doctrine of the Bible."

"This Book given me by you gentlemen shall not be separated from me; it shall be my guide. I shall know how to value it in the true worth, and should Congress give me the power to do so, I shall burn it."

"I shall labor unceasingly for genuine and complete liberty of conscience. I have no notion of and hold in high esteem the cultural and moral work carried on by you Protestants through the republic, and if I become President, the doors of the palace shall always be open to you that I may aid in any labor you undertake."

With regard to the first matter, it will ever be true that constructive temperance reform is to be found only in healthiness of recreation and social conduct. Whatever efforts we may make to prevent men from indulging themselves and their families in the saloon will fail unless we provide the means for them to find healthy recreation.

Whatever we in Canada may do to increase our agricultural population we are going to have growing cities. As these cities grow and a larger proportion of the people are in urban centers, the health and morals of our citizens need not deteriorate if our housing and recreation facilities are developed in a proper degree. Deterioration is now taking place, and is due in a large measure to the absence of these facilities in our industrial areas.

The motor car is guilty in its infancy, but even now it is starting more and more to do us harm. Apart from our railways, roads to our homes are not healthy places for children to play on, and as they are better paved and fast traffic increases, they will become greater danger traps for our children.

We want bigger ideas about the provision we should make for parks and playgrounds.

Parks and recreation grounds should be spread about our cities and neither concentrated in one place or too far distant from the homes of the people.

Perhaps less could be spent on artificial adornment and more in making their utility and popularity is that most cities resist most strongly any attempt to reduce their area or to take them away.

Hay promises to be a short crop this year. Drought at critical times in the growth of hay is a serious calamity, and although clover stood up fairly well under it, there will not be overmuch first cutting clean horse hay, because it has not had time to heal its injury, although early grain will not run high unless there is a good deal of moisture in baying time, which is not altogether desirable.

Grass is Short

One of the greatest industries in the world is kauri-gum digging. More than $2,000,000 worth of this gum is exported annually from New Zealand, to be used in the manufacture of oil varnish, and most of it comes to the United States and Europe. We will find that in spite of our great abundance of land we have room for improvement.

Montreal lies below the headland of Cape Town and London while Vancouver and Edmonton compare favourably with Washington in the acreage of park space available per capita.

The following table gives the percentage of park area of 9 Canadian cities devoted to parks.

Vancouver 15.6, Ottawa 8.2, Hamilton 7.2, Toronto 7.3, Winnipeg 4.1, Ottawa 3.7, Edmonton 3.5, Montreal 3.2, Regina 3.

In the United States the percentages are as follows in nine cities—Washington 14, Boston 13, Baltimore 12, Rochester 11, St. Louis 7, Philadelphia 6, Kansas City 5, New York 4.1, Chicago 4.

There are large forests in Auckland and in some of the townships in the north country where the gum is sorted and graded ready for shipment, the industry furnishing a livelihood to about three thousand persons. The stores of some large buyers in the north are situated on the hills and flat land, and entire wickets of sorting and grading are not here, the gum being shipped by coastal steamer to Auckland for trans-shipment. Kauri gum varies in color from near-black to beautiful transparent amber.

WHERE THE SALVATION ARMY APPEARS ON THE MAP
Began in the open-air at Mile End fifty-three years ago, The Salvation Army has since spread to seventy countries of the world and continues to extend its borders. The shaded portions of the above map show at a glance where The Army Flag is now flying.

MISSING

SONGS OF SALVATION*LIVING FAITH

Tunes—Welcome, sweet day, 76; Silchester, 761 Song-Book, 468.

SURPRISE of faith come down,

Rejoice, sing Godhead known,

And make to us the Godhead known,

And witness with the Blood.

Inspire the living faith,

Which whooso'er receives,

The witness in his heart,

And whoosoever believes,

The truth that conquers all,

And doth the mountain move,

And saves whoso'er on Jesus call,

And perfects them in love.

Tune—"Next to the Cross," B.J. 8

468.

MAKE US HOLY

Tune—Blessed Lord, 168; Song-Book, 462.

O THOU God of Pure Salvation,

King of Righteousness divine,

Author of the new creation,

Light of life, within us shined!

With Thy blessings make us thine!

From all self and sin deliver,

With Thy mercy make us good;

Make us kings and priests for ever,

Wash our garments in Thy Blood.

Send a great Salvation flood,

Through Thy saving merit.

Sun of Righteousness arising,
Living, dying, sacrificing,
Purify from sinful dross.
The disciples,
Teach us now to gain by loss.

THROUGH AND THROUGH

Tunes—"Next to the Cross," B.J. 8

468.

Jesus, save me then; and through—
Save me from self-indulging.
Self-salvation will not do,
Pass me through the cleansing!

Through and through, through and through,

Jesus make me holy;

Save me to the Cross,

All the way to Glory!

Through temptations save from sin,
Said and pride subdue;

Save me through and through within,

Save me by renewing,

Through the tempest, through the calm,

With the Master's teachings,

On my own Beloved's arm,

Off with Jesus walking.

Through my thoughts and through my heart,

Through my flesh and spirit;

Save me, Lord, through every part,

Through Thy saving merit.
